Case No. 5:14-cv-5344-BLF

I. INTRODUCTION

Cisco respectfully moves in limine under Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(e) to preclude Arista from reliance at trial on a non-infringement theory that was not timely disclosed to Cisco. Despite ample opportunity throughout more than a year of discovery, Arista waited until weeks after the close of fact discovery to disclose a new non-infringement theory in its technical expert's rebuttal report. Arista's undue delay in disclosing a theory of non-infringement prejudices Cisco because Cisco cannot properly prepare to cross-examine Arista's fact witnesses regarding this issues at trial. Therefore, the Court should confine Arista to its interrogatory responses prior to discovery cutoff and exclude Arista's untimely non-infringement opinion.

II. LEGAL STANDARD

Rule 26(e)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure requires parties to timely supplement their interrogatory responses if the prior responses are incomplete or incorrect. This duty to supplement applies to contention interrogatories. See B-K Lighting, Inc. v. Vision3 Lighting, 930 F. Supp. 2d 1102, 1136 (C.D. Cal. 2013) (excluding expert testimony that disclosed theories that had not been included in the party's responses to contention interrogatories). A party must exercise "due diligence" in supplementing its disclosures, SPX Corp. v. Bartec USA, LLC, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 29235, at *22 (E.D. Mich. Apr. 10, 2008), and supplementation should occur "during the discovery period." Fed. R. Civ. P. 26 Advisory Committee's Note to 1993

Amendments. Rule 37(c)(1) "mandates that a party's failure to comply with . . . the supplemental disclosure obligations under [Rule] 26(e) results in that party being precluded from use" of the withheld information. Oracle USA, Inc. v. SAP AG, 264 F.R.D. 541, 544 (N.D. Cal. 2009); see also Yeti by Molly Ltd. v. Deckers Outdoor Corp., 259 F.3d 1101, 1106 (9th Cir. 2001) (preclusion of evidence under Rule 37(c)(1) is "automatic" and "self-executing" unless an exception applies). To avoid preclusion, a party who violates Rule 26(e) bears the burden of showing that the violation was substantially justified or harmless. Id. at 1101.

III. DR. JOHN BLACK'S UNTIMELY DISCLOSED NON-INFRINGEMENT THEORY SHOULD BE EXCLUDED

On March 26, 2015, Cisco served Arista with Interrogatory 10, requesting that Arista "[e]xplain in detail all factual and legal bases for any contention by You that You have not infringed Cisco's copyrights in Cisco IOS, including Cisco IOS CLI, and Cisco IOS Documentation." Arista responded to this interrogatory on April 30. 2015 and served five additional supplemental responses to this interrogatory, up until the last day of fact discovery, May 27, 2016. Jenkins Decl., Exh 5. Arista's responses included dozens of non-infringement theories spanning more than 200 pages. Id.

Then, on June 17. 2016, three weeks after the close of fact discovery, Arista served the rebuttal expert report of Dr. John Black, which contained a new, previously-undisclosed, theory of non-infringement.

Arista did not disclose this non-infringement theory in its interrogatory responses, and did not seek leave to amend those responses. Allowing Arista's experts to opine at trial on this theory would unfairly prejudice Cisco. Cisco conducted discovery based on the understanding that Arista's non-infringement defenses were limited to what Arista disclosed in its interrogatory responses. Cisco had no chance to conduct written discovery or fact depositions on the new noninfringement theory because fact discovery closed three weeks before Arista disclosed this opinion. Therefore, the Court should strike all portions of Dr. Black's Rebuttal report that present arguments or rely on this untimely disclosed theory, including paragraphs 95, 136, 138, 177, 178, footnote 31 and Appendix N. Jenkins Decl., Exh. 11. See Apple, Inc. v. Samsung Elecs. Co., No. 11-CV-01846-LHK, 2012 WL 3155574, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 2, 2012) (striking portions of
